INTRODUCTION

INTRODUCTION

USING THE DIRECTORY:

This Directory has two tables of contents and an alphabetical index of last names to assist the reader.

The first table of contents is a summary table providing the section headings only. This offers a brief overview of the contents. The second table of contents contains all major headings and, as such, provides the basic structure of military and military-related agencies of the Russian Federation.

The index is a Roman alphabetical listing of the last names of all individuals cited in the directory.

This directory has grown out of previous JPRS Directories of the USSR Ministry of Defense. As such it is in transition, just as are the agencies to which it refers.

The structure and hierarchical order of the military agencies provided in this directory, are based on: 1) the position titles listed for officers in Central Eurasian media sources, unless otherwise indicated.

Where errors in translation from the Russian (or other language) have crept into English usage, and despite longstanding acceptance among Western readers, the Directory tries to translate terms as close to the proper original definition as possible. Thus "voyska" is rendered as "troops" throughout and the translation of "Raketnyye Voyska Strategicheskogo Naznacheniya" as "Strategic Rocket Forces", has been abandoned in favor of "Strategic Missile Troops", "Ground Forces" in favor of "Ground Troops", etc.

Numbered units or agencies are listed first, followed by alphabetic listings by unit or organization.

The Directory does not provide a complete listing of all personnel or organizations' structures, rather the listings are based on persons and agencies referred to in media sources.

The next higher organization in a given hierarchy, if explicitly referred to by the source, is listed to the right of the organization name, and is placed in square brackets, i.e. [...]. Where subordination is questionable, a question mark in brackets, e.g. [?], follows the entry.

In order to preserve the integrity of the spelling of names, the Russian soft sign is indicated by the use of an apostrophe. The Russian hard sign is indicated by the use of double quotation marks. However, where the original source is in a language other than Russian, the spelling of the name is taken from the original source without alteration to Russian transliteration.

Capitalization is adjusted to standard English style.

INTRODUCTION

Where ever possible, each entry provides a source and date in which the officer was FIRST NOTED in a given position, and the MOST RECENT source and date observed to have mentioned the officer. Where a date precedes a source, as in: "(27 Jul 90 in KVS 15/90 pp 46-62.) the date is that on which the journal was signed to press.

NOTEWORTHY ISSUES AND EVENTS: 1994

EVENTS

Chechnya

The key event of the year occurred in December of 1994. Russian intervention in Chechnya against the government of President Dzhokar Dudayev became the key focal point of attention. The fighting highlighted the extraordinary lack of ground combat capability of the Russian Army, a lack of public and officers corps confidence in the Minister of Defense, Grachev, and the politicians of the Russian Federation [RF] government, and the proliferation of agencies capable of wielding armed force at least within Russia proper and the Near Abroad. Following a failed tank attack, the Chechen city of Grozny was leveled by artillery and air delivered munitions, without defeating the resistance of the Dudayev forces.

Minister Grachev came under outspoken and public criticism from his own officers. Both Generals Gromov and Lebed' spoke out against the war. The latter volunteered to command the withdrawal of troops from Chechnya, though not the attack. The First Deputy Commander-in-Chief of the Ground Troops, Colonel-General Ed'uard Vorob'yev, and the Commander of the Kantemirov (4th) Guards Tank Division, Major-General Boris Polyakov, were asked to resign their commissions, and an order was drafted calling for the release of three deputy ministers of defense, Gromov, Mironov and Kondrat'yev.

All of this took place while the question of whether or not the Ministry of Finance would seek any additional funds for defense in light of the Chechnya conflict was being debated.

Cooperation Agreements

A number of agreements on military cooperation were signed with former republics and Chechnya during 1994.

Armenia. In October 1994 Russian and Armenia established an agreement on joint inspections of Russian military units, deployed on the territory of Armenia, the organization of the reception, technical service, and protection of aircraft at military airfields in the two countries, and also on cooperation in the field of air defense. (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1315 GMT 21 Oct 94).

Belarus. At the end of February a bilateral agreement was signed providing for "the exchange of military equipment." (Yerevan SNARK in English 1257 GMT 15 Mar 94). Also on 25 June the commanders of Russia's and Belarus's air defense establishments signed a cooperation agreement providing for joint operations during emergencies and for exchanging meteorological information and issuing planning and air traffic control information on aircraft activities. (Minsk BTK Television Network in Belarusian 1800 GMT 23 Aug 94).

Chechnya. Russia and Chechnya agreed to a "joint defense system," in January. Under the terms of the agreement "...Russia will provide the Chechen Army with arms, equipment and ammunition, ensure their servicing and maintenance at its plants and train officers. It has also pledged not to use its Armed Forces against the Chechen Republic."

"In turn, the Chechen Republic will participate in the joint defense system to repel possible aggressions and provide its air bases to Russian Air Force units in wartime. Additionally, it will take part in joint military maneuvers and war games and will not join any military alliances or blocs aimed against Russia."

"The draft agreement also stipulates that in peacetime the Chechen Republic will have an army not bigger than 1.5 percent of its population." (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1625 GMT 9 Jan 94).

Georgia. A treaty signed with Georgia on 9 October 1993 commits the two sides "to taking measures designed to guarantee each other's security and defense organizational development. The treaty also envisages joint protection of Georgia's foreign borders, which are also the borders of the CIS. The result of the preliminary consultations between Russian Defense Minister Pavel Grachev and [President] Shevardnadze was an agreement on establishing three Russian military bases on Georgian territory. The number of troops at these bases will not exceed 20,000 men." The treaty further states that Russia is to provide Georgia with assistance in setting up a national army and equipping it with weapons, hardware, and technology without the right to transfer these products to other countries. (Moscow IZVESTIYA in Russian 4 Feb 94 pp 1, 4).

The treaty prohibits research on, transport of, or disposal in Georgia of weapons of mass destruction. It is in effect through the end of 1995 and is automatically renewed for a three-year period, unless either party notifies the other one year prior to expiration. (Moscow DIPLOMATICHESKIY VESTNIK in Russian No 1-2, Jan 94 (signed to press 24 Jan 94) pp 38-47).

Kyrgyzia. In July Grachev and Lieutenant-General Subanov, the Georgian Minister of Defense, signed a package of agreements on Russian-Kyrgyz military cooperation for a period of five years. "Among the documents are agreements on military service of Russian citizens in the Kyrgyz armed forces; on material and technical support for the Russian units in Kyrgyzstan and on the receiving, maintenance and security for aircraft on the two countries' airfields." (Moscow INTERFAX in English 1039 GMT 21 Jul 94).

And in October an agreement on the terms for leasing places where the Russian Defense Ministry's seismic services are sited on Kyrgyzian territory was signed. (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1315 GMT 21 Oct 94).

Moldova. Also in October an agreement on jurisdiction and mutual legal assistance in cases, concerning the temporary stay of Russian military units on Moldovan territory, flights of Russian Air Force planes, temporary bases in Moldavia, and the use of the airport in Tiraspol, where the 14th Russian Army is deployed, by the Russian military transport aviation, was signed. (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1315 GMT 21 Oct 94).

INTRODUCTION

NOTEWORTHY ISSUES AND EVENTS: 1994

Uzbekistan. In March Russian and Uzbekistan signed a military cooperation agreement which stated that both countries belong in a "common strategic military zone," and called for joint efforts in the settlement of regional conflicts. The agreement did not, however, say anything about possible Russian bases in Uzbekistan. (Paris AFP in English 1719 GMT 02 Mar 94).

Ogarkov

On 23 January 1994 Marshal of the Soviet Union Nikolay Vasil'yevich Ogarkov died at the age of 77, following a serious illness. Once Chief of the General Staff of the Soviet Armed Forces and a dominant force in the development of Soviet military doctrine, his most recent position was as an adviser to the RF MoD. Following his death a large number of senior officers protested the lack of coverage or notice of his passing in the civilian media and state agencies. (KZ 25 Jan 94 p 3).

Troop Withdrawal

In August of 1994 the last Russian Troops withdrew from Germany, ending the existence of the WESTERN TROOP GROUPING, previously named the GROUP OF SOVIET FORCES--GERMANY or GSFG. It had been renamed as the Western Troop Grouping in July 1989 (kz 1 jul 89 1st ed p 1.) The Warsaw Treaty Organization's military structures were dissolved on 31 March 1991. (TASS 1515 GMT 31 Mar 91.) The last CINC, BURLAKOV was appointed Deputy Minister of Defense.

ISSUES

During 1994 the Russian Ministry of Defense faced many of the same problems as in 1993. Chief among them were lack of funds (neither budgeted funds nor monies released to the Ministry were adequate), and lack of personnel. Diverse efforts to reform or reorganize the Ministry of Defense were undertaken. Russian troops continued to face 'peacemaking' duties along the southern periphery.

Budget

The 1994 RF defense budget was substantially below the military request, and the appropriation fell further below budget. By March no military budget had yet been approved for 1994. Financing was on a month-to-month basis.

Grachev described the situation as critical. "The amount the state owes to the military department no longer increases by the year but by the month. While it totaled 5 percent of the military budget at the end of 1992, it was 25 percent in December last year, and at the beginning of this year the Defense Ministry received only 63 percent of planned appropriations. This money was scarcely sufficient to pay half the amount owed to suppliers of equipment, arms, and property. ...If the funding situation does not change in the near future, there can be no question not only of reforming the Army, providing it with modern weapons and equipment, and a qualitative renewal, but also of ensuring Russia's security." (Moscow TRUD in Russian 17 Mar 94 p 2).

By June a budget had been proposed. The Finance Ministry draft called for positions figure of 37 trillion. The Defense Ministry responded with R55 trillion as the minimum sum, broken down as follows: "...upkeep of the Armed Forces -- R28 trillion; arms and military hardware purchases -- R11.1 trillion; research and development -- R5.1 trillion; capital construction -- R7.1 trillion; Ministry of Atomic Energy expenditure -- R1.2 trillion; servicemen's pensions -- R2.5 trillion. A total of R55 trillion." (KZ 7 Jun 94 pp 1, 3).

The result was a payments crisis, in which personnel were paid months late, and outside agencies, such as local fuel or power agencies were not paid at all. On 21 September power to the Central Command Post of the Strategic Missile Troops was cut off for four hours by the the Moscow Power Joint-Stock Company due to non-payment of the electric bill. (KZ 28 Sep 94 p 1).

Construction Troops' Strike. In June the Northern Fleet witnessed an unprecedented strike by military construction workers. Some 2,000 military construction personnel, including 915 commissioned and 200 warrant officers had not been paid since the beginning of the year. "The military construction personnel marched to the central square in Severomorsk, the fleet's main base, to demand money, ..." (Moscow IZVESTIYA 7 Jun 94 p 1).

In October the Finance Ministry's 1995 draft budget provided that 45,274,901.8 million rubles be spent on national defense. (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 0815 GMT 27 Oct 94). The Defense Ministry request was roughly twice the above. In November the Duma agree to an allocation of 56 trillion rubles for the following year. (Moscow KRASNAYA ZVEZDA in Russian 23 Nov 94 p 1).

Manpower & Recruitment

Contract recruitment which was to have made up for lesser numbers of draftees was did not yield the desired results. With respect to Naval contract recruitment Admiral Gromov stated that by mid-1993 the Navy had enlisted 22,872 men on contracts. However, there were "serious drawbacks." 50% of the enlistees were sailors with less than 12 months experience, not qualified for needed senior NCO positions.' On submarines enlistees made up 18% of the crews. On surface ships the number was 27%. Gromov regretted that most contracts were concluded for purely material reasons, and professionalism and dedication had not increased, while discipline continued to worsen. (Moscow Radio Rossii Network in Russian 0430 GMT 19 Dec 93).

Similarly in the Moscow Military District: "...Of the 7,360 enlisted and NCOs serving by contract in District units, the Command was forced to nullify the contracts with 1,266 of them within a month or two after signing, basically due to lack of discipline and low moral qualities." (KZ 2 Apr 94 p 3).

By contrast, in the area of officer recruitment, Admiral Kasatonov stated in August that: "The outflow of officers has virtually stopped." (Kaliningrad STRAZH BALTICKI in Russian 31 Aug 94 p 1).

Cossacks. The military continued to avoid one source of potential new manpower, the Cossacks. Sergey Stepashin, head of the Federal Counterintelligence Service, pointed out that the Cossacks have the potential to make up for continuing shortages of manpower. They also have the potential to become an unwanted, autonomous military force. As a result the military has remained hesitant or 'unresponsive' to them. "...Meanwhile, the military draft has failed. Out of over 80 motorized rifle and other Russian Armed Forces large formations, the majority are not up to even 40 percent of strength. This is the tragedy of the Armed Forces. And the Cossacks could somehow rectify the situation here. I believe that it would be right for the Cossacks to serve in the Border Guards and other Russian forces. The only problem could be if the Cossacks start entering the arena as an autonomous military force. And such trends already exist." (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1316 GMT 15 Jun 94).

Peacemaking

Manpower shortages have not stopped Russia from maintaining "peacemaking" troops both abroad in former Yugoslavia, and nearer home in Georgia, Tajikistan, Dnestr, Ingushetia and elsewhere. In North Ossetia and Ingushetia a combined group of troops of about 12,000 men from the North Caucasus Military District and the Internal Affairs Ministry Internal Troops was established. Today the numerical strength of the Russian Army servicemen performing peacekeeping tasks is over 16,000." (KZ 16 Feb 94 p 2).

"Funds for conducting peacekeeping operations are not allocated from the federal budget and the financing of the participation of the military contingent in peacekeeping operations is through Defense Ministry funds." (KZ 16 Feb 94 p 2).

In February 1994 Col-Gen Kondrat'yev argued that "one or two motorized-rifle divisions of the Ground Troops (15,000-16,000 men) must be transferred to a new organizational staff structure meeting the requirement for autonomy when subunits perform peacekeeping missions. We have now voiced proposals for putting these forces outside the treaty framework for conventional arms limitation." (KZ 16 Feb 94 p 2).

General KONDRAT'YEV stated that an Interdepartmental Commission on Peacekeeping was established by Presidential Edict. It was to be chaired jointly by a Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs and by Kondrat'yev himself. (Moscow CHEST IMEYU in Russian No 5-6, May-Jun 94 [Signed to press 10 Jul 94] pp 2-6).

It should be noted that despite the above passages, Russian media usage most frequently refers to "peacemaking" (mirotvorchestvo), rather than peacekeeping. Both linguistically and in terms of recent practice this implies a much more active, possibly interventionist, view of the possible uses of Russian troops in the near abroad.

Reorganization and Reform

Various reorganizations and proposals for reform of the Armed Forces surfaced during 1994. Civilian control of the military became an issue again as the Chechnya crisis unfolded. Civil Defense was made a Ministry in its own right. The Railroad Troops acquired a new parent Ministry (Railways). At the same time the Federal Counterintelligence Service increased in size, while the MoD clashed with the Federal Border Service. The Aerospace Search and Rescue Service was reintegrated into the Ministry of Defense. Proposals were offered for four regional commands, a three-branch, a four-branch, and a five-branch structure, and the possible abolition of the PVO.

Air Defense. In March Grachev announced that: "the military department has examined the issue of the expediency of continuing to preserve the present air defense structure." (Moscow 2x2 Television in Russian 1130 GMT 21 Mar 94).

By fall Grachev told INTERFAX that the Armed Forces would in the future switch to a three-branch structure, based on the Ground Troops, Navy and Air Force, but that this would not occur until sometime after the year 2000.

"An informed source in the Defense Ministry told Interfax that the reorganization of the Armed Forces is to be carried out in two stages. At the initial stage the Air Force and the Air Defense Forces are to be merged, and at the second stage - the Air Force and the Strategic Missile Troops will be combined. The main emphasis will be laid on preserving the system of control over the strategic nuclear forces, and over the missile-defense, Space Defense and Air Defense forces." (Moscow INTERFAX in English 1401 GMT 31 Oct 94). The lone result of this reform debate was the establishment of the Aero-Space Defense Forces as an independent entity with the MoD.

Border Troops. During 1994 the Ministry of Defense suggested that it take over the Border Troops. Within the framework of continued reductions and shortages in critical funding, controversy developed between the Border Troops and the Ministry of Defense over personnel and institutional subordination.

In July Grachev requested that the Border Troops be subordinated to the Ministry of Defense, arguing that the MoD was already responsible for border security for the "air and sea depths." (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1116 GMT 19 Jul 94).

Border Troops' Commander-in-Chief Nikolayev opposed the proposed change. Advertising the Border Troops capabilities and independence, in September Nikolayev staged joint exercises (VOSTOK-94) in the Far East, involving forces from the Defense Ministry, the Federal Counterintelligence Service, the Ministry of Internal Affairs, the Federal Migration Service of the Emergency Situations Ministry, and the State Customs Committee. (Moscow SEGODNYA in Russian 17 Sep 94 p 3). The result was a moral victory for the Border Troops.

The renewed legitimacy of the Border Troops served to emphasize the growing number and size of the alternative "power structures" in Russia. Chief of the General Staff Kolesnikov stated at a closed session of the State Duma Defense Committee that: "'a multiplication of power structures is now going on in Russia.' In fact over 4 million people (2.3 million in the Armed Forces) have been put 'under arms' in the country."

"Besides the Army and Internal Troops, Mobile Troops are being formed. The Ministry for Emergency Situations is planning to form its own navy. Military formations are being re-created within the Federal Counterintelligence Service system and in the Federal Government Communications Service. The President's Security Service is being expanded."

Regional Defense Groupings / Kaliningrad Unified Defense Zone. In mid-March Grachev announced his intent to form a "Special Defense Area" in the Kaliningrad region, involving the Baltic Fleet and the 11th Guards Army. Command was given to Baltic Fleet Commander Admiral Yegorov (Moscow SEGODNYA in Russian 28 Oct 94 p 2).

In the wake of the establishment of the Kaliningrad Special Defense Region, an October 1994 conference on reform noted that: "Plans call for the creation of the regional groupings 'North' (to include the units of two military districts and the Northern Fleet); 'South,' composed of the units of the North Caucasus district; 'Urals-Transbaykal,' based on the Maritime Military District; and 'Far East.'"

However, following a November meeting of the high command which again discussed reform, Chief of the General Staff Kolesnikov stated that the creation of regional commands had been: "...'put on ice' for the time being. Why create new high commands to replace those that were wound up?..." (Moscow ROSSIYSKIYE VESTI in Russian 18 Nov 94 p 1).

Operational vs. Administrative Subordination. In 1993 the process of transferring operational units to the subordination of military district commanders began. Under this system all units in a given geographic area will be subordinate not to the command of the branch of service, but to the district commander. (Moscow KOMMERSANT-DAILY in Russian 12 Feb 94 p 5).

Personnel Commission. In March President Yel'tsin managed to unite the leaderships of all of the "power ministries" in opposition, by creating a special commission intended to oversee senior military appointments. This was the 'Commission on Top Military and Special Ranks.' Apparently having turned down several promotions, the Commission roused the ire of the State Legal Administration which had previously exercised the function, as well as that of Grachev (Defense Ministry), Starovoytov (Federal Agency of Government Communications and Information), Shoygu (Ministry for Affairs of Civil Defense, Emergency Situations, and the Elimination of Effects of Natural Disasters), Stepashin (Federal Counterintelligence Service), Primakov (Russian Federation Foreign Intelligence Service), and Nikolayev (Russian Federation Border Troops) all of whom signed a letter of protest in April. The Ministers argued that the Commission's actions contravened the authority granted to the Ministries over personnel matters. (Moscow OBSHCAYA GAZETA in Russian, No. 38/63, 23-29 Sep 94 p 8).

Security Reorganization. In December of 1993 the Ministry of Security was abolished. Its functions were divided between a number of agencies, thus effectively reducing the considerable power pooled in one Ministry.

INTRODUCTION

NOTEWORTHY ISSUES AND EVENTS: 1994

The majority of the functions of the Ministry were inherited by the new Federal Counterintelligence Service. Its responsibilities include combatting foreign special services, terrorism, illegal arms trafficking, the drugs, mafia, and armed bandit formations, economic and military counterintelligence. However, the investigative apparatus passed to the Russian General Prosecutor's Office. 'Special subunits' were transferred to the Federal Agency of Government Communications and Information and the Main Administration of the President's Guard. Lefortovo prison passed to the jurisdiction of the MVD [Ministry of Internal Affairs].

At the same time the Russian Federation Border Guard Troops were detached and transformed into the independent Federal Border Service with the rights of a separate ministry.

The staff of the counterintelligence agency was reduced -- to 75,000 employees in the provinces and 1,500 in the management apparatus. (Moscow PRAVDA in Russian 11 Jan 94 p 1).

Civilian Control

The Chechnya crises gave new life to proposals to subordinate the General Staff to the RF President, and to make the Ministry of Defense a separate, administrative agency, possibly led by a civilian. In July Yel'tsin discussed the need for a "system of civilian control over the Armed Forces" with Sergey Yushenkov, Chairman of the Duma Defense Committee. According to Yushenkov: "...Yuriy Baturin, presidential national security adviser, has been tasked with setting up such a structure." (Moscow MOSKOVSKIY KOMSOMOLETS in Russian 26 Jul 94 p 1). As the Chechnya disaster unfolded, Yushenkov again mentioned a proposal to bring the General Staff directly under control of the President, bypassing the Minister of Defense.

In fact this idea had appeared earlier, in late 1993. One press source noted that "...recently a draft plan for reorganizing the control structure of the Russian Armed Forces has been submitted to the Russian President."

"Under this draft, the General Staff is to be transferred from under the Defense Minister's jurisdiction and directly subordinated to the President -- the Supreme Commander who will control the army. The Minister will be mainly in charge of cadre, military-technical, military-economic and budgetary matters. The General Staff (whose chief, just like the Minister, is also to be appointed by the President) will have purely executive functions: processing orders by the Supreme Commander and ensuring operational troop control." (Moscow OBSHCAYA GAZETA in Russian No. 23/25 24-31 Dec 93 (Signed to press 23 Dec) p 2).

Ad Hoc Crisis Response Team

Crisis response was handled by ad hoc interagency committees.

In December of 1993 an ad hoc crisis response team was put together to deal with a group of terrorists who had taken hostages. Kokoshin described the makeup of this team. A "State Commission" was created, "headed by First

INTRODUCTION

NOTEWORTHY ISSUES AND EVENTS: 1994

Vice Premier Oleg Soskovets. Minister of Defense General of the Army Pavel Grachev gave directions for using any necessary Armed Forces assets to assist MVD agencies in conducting this operation. A three-level crisis management system was established: 1) an Interdepartmental Commission at the level of the first and second persons of the Ministry of Defense, MVD, FSK [Federal Counterintelligence Service], FAPSI [Federal Agency for Government Communications and Information], Ministry of Health and others, which worked for three days in Soskovets' office; 2) operations staffs in each of the departments participating in the operation, including a special operations team on the General Staff and in the Main Command of the Air Force; 3) and an operations staff in Mineralnyye Vody [the locale in question] headed by General Chebotarev from the MVD. Lieutenant-General Vladimir Mikhaylov, 4th Air Army commander, was appointed Chebotarev's deputy." (Moscow SEGODNYA in Russian 18 Feb 94 p 9).

When Chechen opposition groups and the Dudayev Government began serious fighting in the fall of 1994 an "Operational Group" in the Defense Ministry's General Staff was established to coordinate Russian actions. It included officers from the Main Operations Directorate, Main Intelligence Directorate, and Main Organizational-Mobilization Directorate. (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 3 Dec 94 p 1).

Financial-Industrial Groups

The State Defense Industry Committee began implementing a plan whereby defense industries would be grouped into 11 'financial industrial groups,' the first of which was established in September 1994. It is 'International Air Engines.'

Rosvooruzheniye

In November of 1993 Yel'tsin established Rosvooruzheniye as a central mechanism to organize foreign arms sales. It is based on the Russian State Foreign Economic Association "Oboroneksport," the State Foreign Economic Association "Spetsvneshtekhnika," and the Main Administration for Cooperation and Collaboration, which exercised duplicate functions in the arms export field. It is the legal successor to the three aforementioned organizations in terms of rights and duties.

"The new state company will not only sell Russian weapons but will also set up repair depots and centers for training and retraining specialists in foreign countries which use these weapons." (KZ 27 Jan 94 p 1, 2).

It was hoped that this agency might eliminate some of the unfortunate practices that had begun to develop in Russian arms sales. "For instance, five Russian specialist arms exporters tendered for a 1992 munitions delivery to India. They were all offering products from the same plant. As a result, the unit cost of the ammunition was knocked down from $700 to $450. ...In the space of a single year the Malaysian and Bangladesh defense ministers were visited by representatives of 24 Russian firms, who unanimously stated that they had exclusive rights to sell our weapons." (KZ 16 Mar 94 p 3).

INTRODUCTION

NOTEWORTHY ISSUES AND EVENTS: 1994

A government decree of 8 May 1994 granted weapons manufacturers the right to "independent external economic activity." (Moscow KOMMERSANT-DAILY in Russian 21 May 94 p 8).]

It is noteworthy that in a year which witnessed progressive decline in Russian conventional military strength, and with no prospect of a significant increase in manpower, funding or general commitment to the defense sector, there has been a proliferation of agencies within Russia capable of wielding armed force. These include not only the Ministry of Defense, but also the Ministry of Internal Affairs, the Border Troops, the FSK, the Presidential Security Service, the Federal Agency of Government Communications and Information, the Ministry for Affairs of Civil Defense, Emergency Situations, and the Elimination of Effects of Natural Disasters, and the Foreign Intelligence Service. This list does not include such subnational organizations as the Cossacks or the Moscow People's Militia.

While this fragmentation of authority and power effectively prevents a super-agency from dominating the Russian government, it may also foster one of a number of the possible situations: a) interagency infighting; b) civil strife; or c) the seizure of government by a moderate sized force. In any event, it has weakened Russian ability to intervene along its periphery, witness the performance of Defense, Border, FSK, and MVD elements in Chechnya.

RUSSIAN FEDERATION MILITARY AND RELATED AGENCIESLEGAL DIVISION OF AUTHORITY VIS-A-VIS ARMED FORCES

[PRIOR TO SEPTEMBER 1993: Legal authority over the Armed Forces was divided between President and Supreme Soviet and the Government.]

The President:

- is the Supreme Commander-in-Chief;
- presents to the Supreme Soviet a draft of the main provisions for the military doctrine;
- approves the overall concept and plans for organizational development, the plans for the employment of the Armed Forces, the mobilization plan for the Armed Forces, the mobilization plans for the economy as well as the plans for the training and build-up of mobilization reserves and the effective equipping of the nation's territory in the interests of defense;
- approves the state programs and plans for the development of weapons and military equipment within the limits of the allocated funds;
- sanctions the carrying out of nuclear and other special testing in accord with the testing programs approved by the Supreme Soviet;
- with the agreement of the Supreme Soviet appoints the Minister of Defense, the Chief of the General Staff and his deputies, the commanders of the services, territorial and functional commands and independently the chiefs of the directorates of the Ministry of Defense and the General Staff, the commanders of field forces, formations and also dismisses them or accepts their retirement in the proper order;
- awards the military ranks of generals and admirals;
- approves the Regulations on the Ministry of Defense and the General Staff;
- approves the plan for civil defense and the Regulation on Territorial Defense;
- approves, at the request of the Minister of Defense, the plans for the disposition of the Armed Forces and the other troops, the location of military facilities and facilities to eliminate weapons of mass destruction and nuclear wastes;
- conducts talks and signs international treaties of the Russian Federation on joint defense and military collaboration and on question of collective security and disarmament;
- announces a state of war, general or partial mobilization, martial law on the entire territory of the Russian Federation or in its individual localities in the event of a surprise armed attack on the Russian Federation with the subsequent immediate submission of these questions for review by the Supreme Soviet;
- issues orders to the Armed Forces on the conduct of military operations, for the employment of nuclear weapons and other types of weapons of mass destruction within the limits of the powers established by the Supreme Soviet;

- puts into effect wartime enforceable enactments and cancels their action; he forms and manages the wartime bodies of state administration in accord with the Russian Federation Law on Martial Law;
- issues edicts on the induction of citizens of the Russian Federation for military service (with an indication as to the number of inductees). (Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 9 Oct 92 p 4).]

[Prior to September 1993:]

The Russian Federation Supreme Soviet:

- defines military policy and adopts the main provisions of military doctrine;
- carries out legislative supervision in the area of defense and the sociolegal protection of the servicemen, persons discharged from military service and members of their families;
- approves the text of the Military Oath, the combined arms regulations and the colors and flags of the Russian Federation Armed Forces;
- reviews and approves article-by-article the defense budget;
- at the request of the Russian Federation President, approves the strength, structure and size of the Russian Federation Armed Forces and other troops, it sets the number of official positions in the Russian Federation Armed Forces to be held by generals and admirals;
- sets the military ranks;
- approves the regulations on the order of undergoing military service and the carrying out of state service which replaces military service (alternative service);
- supervises the carrying out of legislation on the questions of defense;
- approves the appointing of the Minister of Defense and his deputies, the Chief of the General Staff of the Russian Federation Armed Forces and his deputies, the commanders of the services, the territorial and functional commands of the Armed Forces;
- dismisses the Minister of Defense for cause and in the procedures provided by the Constitution;
- ratifies and denounces the international treaties of the Russian Federation on joint defense and military collaboration and on questions of collective security and disarmament;
- takes decisions on the use of Russian Federation Armed Forces outside the Russian Federation in accord with its international obligations;
- takes decisions on general or partial mobilization, on the introduction and ending of martial law on the entire territory of the Russian Federation or in its individual localities, on declaring a state of war, the establishing and abolition of wartime bodies of state authority and administration, the halting of war and the concluding of peace; -determines the powers of the Russian Federation President on conducting nuclear and other special tests and the employment of nuclear weapons.

"The actual number of servicemen in the Russian Federation Armed Forces in peacetime (without special permission for this from the Russian Federation Supreme Soviet) cannot exceed 1 percent of the size the Russian Federation's population." (Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 9 Oct 92 p 4, Russian Federation Law on Defense).

RUSSIAN FEDERATION MILITARY AND RELATED AGENCIES

PRESIDENT AND SUPREME COMMANDER-IN-CHIEF --- YEL'TSIN, Boris (Vladivostok Domestic Service in Russian 0215 GMT 21 Aug 91.)

[Following the Aug. 1991 Coup, Yel'tsin assumed authority as CINC. Yel'tsin's decree assuming authority as CINC specified that: "My authority as Commander of the Armed Forces of the USSR upon the territory of the RSFSR ends when the President of the USSR resumes the performance of his duties as Supreme Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of the USSR or when new bodies for running the Armed Forces of the USSR are formed in accordance with the Constitution of the USSR and the laws of the USSR." (Moscow IZVESTIYA 24 Oct 91 Union Edition p 6.)

Subsequently, on 7 May 1992 Yel'tsin, as Russian Federation President assumed the office of Supreme Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces of the Russian Federation. (Moscow ITAR-TASS World Service in Russian 1502 GMT 7 May 92).]

[During the September-October 1993 confrontation between Yel'tsin and the Supreme Soviet RUTSKOY, Aleksandr, Maj-Gen was chosen President by the assembled legislators. He was not able to exercise authority over the Armed Forces.]]

PRESIDENTIAL ASSISTANT FOR NATIONAL SECURITY (Ph: 224 07 26) --- BATURIN, Yuriy Appointed in December 1993 (KZ 10 Jan 94 p 1). (Moscow ITAR-TASS World Service in Russian 1415 GMT 1 Nov 94).

[BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION: BATURIN: was Assistant to the President for Legal Affairs. Doctor of Juridical Sciences. Lecturer at Moscow State University Journalism Faculty. "Being in many regards an 'outsider' in the President's administration and a highly obstinate person who only superficially accepts the apparatus rules in operation there, Yuriy Baturin has nonetheless succeeded in integrating [himself] within the presidential apparatus, primarily due to the fact that he lacks personal political ambitions (his ambitions lie in a some different sphere). He has the rare ability to abandon his personal motivation outside the offices he has occupied and, thanks to this, many people both in Yeltsin's apparatus and in Gorbachev's apparatus earlier on have found him to be an obstacle that is difficult to surmount, rather than a rival in the struggle for power and influence."

Baturin is closely acquainted with practically no one. He met Nikolay Golushko only in Aug. 1993. He met Sergey Stepashin of the Federal Counterintelligence Service, only in Jan. of 1994. He knows no one from the Defense Ministry. He has met with Viktor Yerin only a few times. Yuriy Baturin's closest acquaintance is Yevgeniy Primakov. They got to know one another at the end of the 1980's.

Having graduated from a Moscow school, in 1967 Baturin entered the Moscow Physico-Technical Institute. He retains the habit of resolving all problems by the inveterate "grease-monkey" method-studying the range of questions, identifying the essence, finding an effective solution.

"Sleeps little and works a lot. As his former classmates tell it, even against the background of the customary industriousness of many of the "phys-tech" students Baturin was distinguished by an incredible capacity for work. Studied philosophy, political science, and literature. He knows English, Japanese, French, Swedish, Serbo-Croatian, and German. Baturin was one of those who prepared the well-known Union Treaty. After the 1991 putsch and the departure of the President of the USSR and his team from the political arena which followed this, Yuriy Baturin retired into the background, although continuing to work at the Gorbachev Foundation." (Moscow NOVOYE VREMYA in Russian No 3, Jan 94 [signed to press 18 Jan 94] pp 10-11). (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 11 Jan 94 pp 1, 3).]

Presidential Assistant on Matters of Military-technical Cooperation with Foreign Countries --- KUZYSK, Boris (Moscow KOMMERSANT-DAILY in Russian 30 Jun 94 p 3).

Presidential Representative to the State Company "Rosvooruzheniye" --- SHAPOSHNIKOV, Yevgeniy Ivanovich, Mar Avn (Moscow NOVAYA ROSSIYA: INFORMATSIONNOGO-STATISTICHESKIY AL'MANAKH 1994 p 24).

AD HOC LEADERSHIP GROUP FOR CHECHNYA CRISIS

["By a special decree of the Russian president Army General Pavel GRACHEV has been appointed leader of this group, which includes Nikolay YEGOROV plenipotentiary representative of the Russian Federation President in the Chechen Republic; Minister of Internal Affairs Viktor YERIN; Border Troops Commander in Chief Colonel General Andrey NIKOLAYEV; Federal Counterintelligence Service leader Sergey STEPASHIN; plus Deputy Foreign Minister Boris PASTUKHOV; MVD Internal Troops Commander Colonel General Anatoliy KULIKOV; and representatives of the Emergencies Ministry." (KZ 7 Dec 94 p 4).]

OFFICE OF PROTECTION OF THE PRESIDENT (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 11 Jan 94 pp 1, 3).]

PERSONNEL POLICY, PRESIDENT'S COUNCIL FOR

COMMISSION ON TOP MILITARY AND SPECIAL RANKS [Created March of 1994, the Commission is said to be chaired by Yuriy BATURIN with the help for General Dmitriy VOLKOGONOV (Moscow OBSHCAYA GAZETA in Russian, No. 38/63, 23-29 Sep 94 p 8).]

PRESIDENTIAL SECURITY SERVICE (SBP)

[Former 9th Directorate of the USSR KGB was divided up as of 17 Dec 1993 to form this agency. It is not clear whether this differs from the 'Office of Protection of the President,' or the 'Main Directorate of Security of the RF.' (Moscow Radio Rossii Network in Russian 1508 GMT 17 Dec 93). (Moscow NOVAYA ROSSIYA: INFORMATSIONNO-STATISTICHESKIY ALMANAKH in Russian 1994 p 54).]

["This includes [supervision of] communications, the Rossiya airline company (the former 235th government air squadron), the former 15th "bunker" KGB Directorate (which provides for the activity of state organs under wartime conditions; it is in charge of the secret Metro-2 and other strategic facilities)..." (Moscow KOMSOMOLSKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 10 Feb 95 p 7).]

CHead --- KORZHAKOV, Aleksandr V., Maj-Gen (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 16 Nov 94 pp 1, 2). (Moscow KOMSOMOLSKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 10 Feb 95 p 7).

[BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION, KORZHAKOV, "recently a major, the 'stooge' of Boris Yel'tsin, first secretary of the Moscow City CPSU Committee..." Said to be an opponent of Chernomyrdin, and an ally of Soskovets. (Moscow IZVESTIYA in Russian 7 Dec 94 pp 1, 4).

[Born 1950 in Moscow. Graduated from the All-Union Correspondence Legal Institute. After 1970--worker of the 9th Directorate of the USSR KGB. After 1985 Deputy Chief of the group of Yeltsin's bodyguards. Retired on a pension in 1989." Served in the KGB for 17 years in the 'Ninth' and was transferred to the 18th Division (bodyguards for higher leaders). Sent to Afghanistan, apparently to protect Babrak Karmal. Two daughters and a Scottish setter. "...he is a person of considerable physical strength with excellent reflexes and coordination." Played volleyball at almost a professional level (cartilage removed from both knees) and was a champion marksman. "On Gorkiy Street when an 'amateur' driver of a private Zhiguli ran into Yeltsin's Volga and rammed into the front door, behind which the future president sat, Korzhakov was able to pull open the bent and jammed door." (Moscow KOMSOMOLSKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 10 Feb 95 p 7).

[After Korzhakov was dismissed, guarded the Chairman of the Plastik Cooperative. Worked in the reception room of the USSR Supreme Soviet Committee on Questions of Construction and Architecture of which Yeltsin was the chairman. Then as a guard. When Yeltsin was elected chairman of the Russian parliament, a security department was formed for the chairman and it was headed by Korzhakov. Korzhakov's sponsor in the presidium was Ruslan Khasbulatov. (Moscow KOMSOMOLSKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 10 Feb 95 p 7).]

SECURITY COUNCIL (Moscow INTERFAX in English 1358 GMT 5 Mar 92). Established by Presidential Decree No. 547 of 3 June 1992 (Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 10 Jun 92 First Edition p 5).

[Ph: Reception -- 206 35 96 (Moscow NOVAYA ROSSIYA: INFORMATSIONNOGO-STATISTICHESKIY AL'MANAKH 1994 p 24).]

["The President of the Russian Federation is Chairman of the Security Council ex officio. The following are permanent members of the Council ex officio:

- the Vice President of the Russian Federation,
- the First Deputy Chairman of the Russian Federation Supreme Soviet,
- the Chairman of the Russian Federation government,
- the Secretary of the Security Council.
- Leaders of federal ministries and departments as well as other officials appointed by the President of the Russian Federation by consent of the Russian Federation Supreme Soviet can be members of the Council." (Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 10 Jun 92 First Edition p 5).]

Secretary (Ph: 206 31 83) --- LOBOV, Oleg Ivanovich (Upon appointment, Lobov was relieved as First Deputy Prime Minister and Economics Minister. (Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 1313 GMT 18 Sep 93). (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 2 Feb 94 p 1).

[The Previous Secretary SHAPOSHNIKOV, Yevgeniy Ivanovich, Mar Avn (Moscow ITAR-TASS World Service in Russian 0920 GMT 15 Jun 93), replaced SKOKOV Yuriy V., (Moscow TASS in English 1917 GMT 18 Dec 91) on 11 June 1993. However Marshal Shaposhnikov resigned shortly after appointment, due to stiff opposition in the Supreme Soviet. (Moscow INTERFAX in English 1303 GMT 10 Aug 93). While there was a gesture toward appointing Shaposhnikov Ambassador to New Zealand, the appointment was opposed by Yel'tsin and apparently cancelled.]

Deputy Secretary (Ph: 206 30 81) --- MANILOV, Valeriy Leonidovich, Lt-Gen (Appointed, Moscow ITAR-TASS in English 0912 GMT 30 Jun 93). (Moscow NOVAYA ROSSIYA: INFORMATSIONNOGO-STATISTICHESKIY AL'MANAKH 1994 p 24).

[Successor to former Ministry of Security. Administrative apparatus of 1,500. Total personnel, including military & civilian, of 75,000. (KZ 10 Jan 94 p 1).]

[GOLUSHKO: "According to the Statute, the task of the FSK is to work to expose, avert, and suppress intelligence-gathering and subversive activity by foreign special services and organizations and illegal encroachments on Russia's constitutional system, sovereignty, territorial integrity, and defense capability. The unified counterintelligence system incorporates territorial and regional organs in republics, krais, and oblasts and military counterintelligence organs in the Armed Forces, Border Guard Troops and Internal Troops, and other Russian Federation military formations." (Moscow IZVESTIYA in Russian 3 Feb 94 First Edition pp 1, 6).]

[STEPASHIN: "all prerequisites for the revival of political surveillance have been destroyed. The new service is intended only to expose and terminate operations by foreign special services against the Russian Federation and to acquire information about threats to our country's security. It is also tasked with waging a struggle against terrorism, the imports of weapons and drugs, and the struggle against illegal armed formations. Despite the fact that the Border Guard Troops have evolved into an autonomous service, the FSK will continue to provide counterintelligence backup for the effective protection of Russia's state borders." (KZ 11 Jan 94 p 1).]

["The reorganization of the Security Ministry and the creation of the FSK is in full swing: Among other things, the former Security Ministry's investigation administration has been transferred to the General Prosecutor's Office and the Lefortovo detention center transferred to the Ministry of Internal Affairs; certain special operations subunits have moved to the Federal Government Communications and Information Agency; and the fight against organized crime and racketeering (apart from corruption in the top echelons of power) has been handed over completely to the militia. On the other hand the Alfa and Vypel special antiterrorist subunits remain part of the President's Main Protection Administration." (Moscow KOMSOMOL'SKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 11 Jan 94 p 1).]

[STEPASHIN: "Overall, the Federal Counterintelligence Service's staff will be half as large as that of the former Ministry of Security [MB]. The MB had a staff of 138,000; the FSK will have 75,000 (nationwide)." (Moscow TRUD in Russian 11 Jan 94 pp 1-2).]

Chief --- STEPASHIN, Sergey Vadimovich, Lt-Gen (KZ 11 Jan 94 p 1). (Moscow INTERFAX in English 1103 GMT 16 Jan 95).

[BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION, STEPASHIN: born 2 March 1952 in the city of Port Arthur (PRC). In 1973 graduated from the USSR Internal Affairs Ministry's Higher Political School, and in 1981 from the Lenin Military-Political Academy. Candidate of History (dissertation in 1986; subject: "Party Direction of Fire Fighting Formations. (Moscow SEGODNYA in Russian 4 Mar 94 p 1). "Prior to being elected People's Deputy, served in the MVD troops. Taught at the Leningrad Ministry of Internal Affairs Institute. In 1987-1990 together with the cadets operated in the "hot spots" (Karabakh, Fergana, Sumgait, Sukhumi). Commandant of a district in Baku. In 1990 Deputy Chief of the Political History Department at the USSR Internal Affairs Ministry's Higher Political School (Leningrad). Combined his duties with delivering lectures and giving exams. In 1990 the cadets nominated him as candidate for People's Deputy. From 1990 to 1993, People's Deputy of the Russian Federation (member of the Left Center -- Cooperation faction and the Army Reform group). Quit the CPSU on 19 August 1991. From 1991 to 1993, Chairman of the Russian Federation Supreme Soviet's Defense and Security Committee. After August 1991 headed a State Commission investigating KGB activities. When the Commission finished its work, appointed Deputy General Director of the Federal Security Agency -- Head of the Leningrad City and Oblast' Directorate. When the Russian Security Ministry was created, became Deputy Minister of Security. In September 1991 promoted to Major-General, and a year later to Lieutenant-General. For nine months combined his work in the Supreme Soviet committee with duties in the Russian Ministry of Security. In September 1992 attempted to resign from the Committee, but the Supreme Soviet voted to ask President Yel'tsin to assign Stepashin to work in the Supreme Soviet, relieving him of his duties as Deputy Minister and Head of a Security Ministry Directorate. ["The 'Defense' group includes all servicemen of the Army, the [Baltic] Fleet, and the Interior Ministry, as well as servicemen in the reserve and employees of the Prosecutor's Office. These are people who, despite their affinity and antagonism, defend one position in resolving issues in Duma committees concerning law enforcement policy and our country's defense: The Armed Forces must be the instrument of defense against external aggression, while the Interior Ministry troops must ensure observance of the law." (KZ 25 Jan 94 pp 1,2).]

[PLATFORM OF THE DEFENSE GROUP:

- to ensure expert examination of existing laws dealing with issues of defense, law enforcement, crime prevention, social security of servicemen and law enforcement employees, and of their family members;
- to prepare an efficient legal basis for thorough reform of armed and law enforcement forces with the aim of increasing their performance to the maximum degree possible, and freeing them of functions alien to them;
- to ensure the assignation of finances for the development of programs on defense, security, and crime prevention; to view these trends as priorities in adopting the budget;
- to ensure a legal basis for the implementation of conversion, the possibility of creating sources of financing other than the budget for the implementation of special-purpose programs at the cost of utilizing local economic resources in military districts, the fleet, border troops, interior forces, and counterintelligence;
- to work out a system of nominating and discussing candidates for the top leadership of armed forces and law enforcement bodies, beginning with leaders of chief administrations;
- to begin the development of a system of servicemen's social adaptation to market conditions, retraining and employment after their discharge related to the reduction of the Russian Armed Forces;
- to make radical changes in the structure of the budget by reducing expenditures on purchases of outdated facilities and armaments, for operative and technical supplies and equipment used in criminology, and by increasing the funds for the maintenance of regular and operative personnel and for combat and special training." Reception: 293 38 54

Information: 296 89 00

[President Yel'tsin signed the decree creating the Russian Ministry of Defense on 16 March 1992. At that time he became the Acting Defense Minister as well. (Moscow POSTFACTUM in English 1645 GMT 16 Mar 92).]

MINISTER OF DEFENSE --- GRACHEV, Pavel Sergeyevich, Mar (Moscow KRSNAYA ZVEZDA in Russian 7 Apr 92 First Edition p 1)) Awarded Marshal's Star (KZ 28 Jul 92 p 1).

[BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION, GRACHEV: Appointed Russian Minister of Defense at 2000 hours 18 May 1992. Born on 1 January 1948 in the village of Rvy, Tula Oblast. Graduated from Ryazan Airborne Troops School (1969). Commander of an airborne platoon at Kaunas. Served as commander of a training company at the Ryazan school, battalion commander in Lithuania and chief of staff of a training division. Attended the Frunze Military Academy from 1978 to 1981. Served as Deputy Commander of the 354th Airborne Regiment in Afghanistan in 1981-1982. Six months later became Commander of that regiment. Served as Chief of Staff of the 7th Airborne Division (VDD) at Kaunas from 1983 to 1985. In 1985 he became Commander of the 103rd Airborne Division in Afghanistan. He spent a total of five years and three months in the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan. From 1988 to 1990 he studied at the General Staff Academy. In 1990-1991 he served as First Deputy Commander and then Commander of Airborne Troops, First Deputy Minister of Defense of the USSR and Chairman of the State Defense Committee of the RSFSR. He became Deputy Commander in Chief of the CIS Joint Armed Forces in January 1992. He was appointed First Deputy Minister of Defense of Russia on 3 April 1992 and Minister of Defense of the Russian Federation on 18 May. He was awarded the title Hero of the Soviet Union for "executing combat missions with minimal human losses" in Afghanistan. The award was conferred upon him after the decision was made to withdraw the troops from the DRA. (Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 26 Sep 92 p 7). In August 1991 Grachev, who was Commander of Airborne Troops, refused to storm the "White House." (Moscow KOMSOMOL'SKAYA PRAVDA in Russian 20 May 92 p 1).

During the September/October confrontation between and Yeltsin and Parliament, President RUTSKOY appointed ACHALOV, Vladislav Alekseyevich, Col-Gen, as the MINISTER OF DEFENSE. He was unable to exert his authority. Following the October 1993 storming of the White House, AHCHALOV was held in Lefortovo Prison and indicted for "The organization of mass disorders with serious consequences..." (Moscow ITAR-TASS World Service in Russian 1800 GMT 15 Oct 93).]

Public Relations and Press Assistant to the Defense Minister --- AGAPOVA, Yelena Aleksandrovna (KZ 24 Mar 93 p 3). (Moscow NOVAYA YEZHEDNEVNAYA GAZETA in Russian 12 Aug 94 pp 1, 2).

[AGAPOVA: "Before joining the Ministry of Defense Yelena Agapova worked around 30 years with KRASNAYA ZVEZDA, where she climbed the career ladder from editorial messenger to assistant editor-in-chief. An accident decided her fate in the Ministry of Defense. It was March 1993, deputies of the RF Supreme Soviet invited Grachev to attend a hearing, where the Defense Minister was to give a report on the status of the Russian Armed Forces. As the appointed day came closer, Grachev became increasingly gloomier: The report, which had been drafted by military specialists and which contained a mass of 'sticky issues,' could create an undesirable impression. It was then that Yelena Aleksandrovna came to the rescue. Literally in one night she managed to tailor the 'explosive' text in such a way that by morning the General of the Army not only survived but even earned the applause of the deputies. Having become confident in the abilities of his Press Secretary, Grachev elevated her to the rank of an advisor to the Ministry and instructed her to form her own staff, for which 12 officers slots were foreseen. After completing this task as well, Agapova petitioned to establish a new subdivision under the Ministry-the Directorate of Information and the Press. November of the same year, and promoted to Lieutenant-General in 1993. "(According to available information the question of promoting Lapshov to Colonel-General was also raised. However, Colonel-General Valeriy Mironov, Pavel Grachev's Deputy, who handled personnel issues at that time, stated his categorical opposition. Such a high rank did not correspond to the position occupied by Lapshov."

"According to friends an unusually gregarious, communicative person and a fabulous organizer of parties, Lapshov could not but be a soul mate to Pavel Grachev, no less gregarious than the former.

"As Director of the Minister's Administration, Lapshov possesses extremely significant power. Practically all documents requiring the Minister's attention go through his hands. It's his decision whether they end up on Grachev's desk or get tossed into the waste basket. Access to the Minister is also through Lapshov." [NIKITIN, BIOGRAPHICAL INFORMATION: "...Chief of the Administrative Directorate of the Ministry of Defense, is within the leadership of the military department, and a very mysterious figure. Ill-wishers have this to say about him: 'Nikitin? Oh, before he was promoted to General he never commanded a troop grouping any larger than two typists!'" A lawyer by education, Vladimir Nikolayevich Nikitin came to the Main Cadres Directorate as a civilian employee. And it was there that he became a lieutenant, upon joining military service voluntarily. After this he was transferred from the Main Cadres Directorate to, of all things, the Main Intelligence Directorate. He served there to the rank of Captain, and once again returned to the Main Cadres Directorate, where he was promoted to Major. Then the August coup occurred. Nikitin spent the 'three black days' in the White House, from which he moved to a position in the State Legal Administration under the RF President. From there, traveling the road from Major to Major-General in a single year (!)-Nikitin received his general's rank by an edict from USSR President Gorbachev. He returned once again to the Ministry of Defense, where he assumed his former position as Chief of the Administrative Directorate; a position which, in view of its unique features, could be occupied only by a person known to be 'especially trustworthy.'" 4th Central Scientific-research Institute of the Ministry of Defense

[In City of Bolshevo outside Moscow. "The main objective of this leading research establishment of the Strategic Missile Troops is the provision of operational and strategic substantiation for the employment of nuclear missiles. ...there are now 1,500 research officers working at the institute (average statistical rank: lieutenant colonel), and approximately 1,000 civilians. These include 30 doctors and 500 candidates of sciences. These specialists in their time developed possible scenarios for large-scale combat actions, with probable opponents being NATO and the USSR. Today, according to Dvorkin, much attention has to be given to regional scenarios: 'Regional conflicts are of interest to us from the viewpoint of the survivability of nuclear rocket forces because we believe that losses of strategic nuclear forces in conventional war are unacceptable.' Moreover, provisions have to be made for the possibility of mass destruction weapons appearing in third countries. 'In this event, if irrational regimes are in power there,' Vladimir Dvorkin stressed, 'we must have the possibility to threaten some selective local action.' ... The institute has its own linear accelerator which can speed up electrons to the energy of 7 megaelectron-volts. " (Moscow NEZAVISIMAYA GAZETA in Russian 4 Nov 94 p 1).]

(MOBILE FORCES)

["... At the end of November [1992] the Russian Defense Ministry announced the beginning of the formation of the Mobile Forces. They will appear as an interbranch [mezhvidovoy] large formation of the Armed Forces and will subsequently perhaps be given the status of an autonomous branch of the Armed Forces. The Volga and Urals military districts, inland military districts of Russia, have been chosen as the base for the Mobile Force's main structures.

"... For the time being it is presumed that initially the forces will include two airborne divisions and three airborne brigades already stationed in Russia. In the initial stage -- only operationally, it seems -- several helicopter regiments from units of the Ground Troops Aviation, three marine battalions, some Air Defense and communications units, fighter and bomber squadrons, plus military transport aviation will be subordinated to the Mobile Forces command." BLACK SEA FLEET

["Three interstate agreements have been signed -- the Dagomys Agreement of 23 June 1992; the Yalta Agreement of 3 August 1992; the Moscow Agreement of 17 June 1993; and also the Massandra Protocol of 3 September 1993.

"In the Dagomys Agreement, the sides expressed their readiness to develop their relations as friendly states and to start working out without delay a full-scale political treaty. They reaffirmed the importance of continuing talks on setting up in the Black Sea the Russian and Ukrainian navies (on the basis of the Black Sea Fleet). They also agreed to use on a contract basis the existing system of deployment and logistic support, and also to refrain from unilateral actions with regard to the fleet until talks are completed.

"The Yalta Agreement established a transition period (up to 1995 inclusive) to form the Russian and Ukrainian navies in the Black Sea. The two sides agreed to bring the Black Sea Fleet up to strength with conscripts in an equal proportion (50-50) and to conclude follow-up agreements to specify provision of the Yalta Accord.

"In the Moscow Agreement, the sides specified that they would complete the formation of the Russian and Ukrainian navies by 1996; the Fleet would be split equally (50-50), same as the cost of its financing before the split is completed. At the same time, the Russian Federation and Ukraine stressed once again that any unilateral actions with regard to the Black Sea Fleet during the transition period are prohibited."

"Finally, in the Massandra Protocol the presidents agreed that the entire Black Sea Fleet would be turned over to Russian jurisdiction along with its entire infrastructure in Crimea and that Russia would compensate Ukraine for its share..." TEXT OF YELTSIN DECREE TAKING OVER BLACK SEA FLEET

PM0804152392 Moscow ROSSIYSKAYA GAZETA in Russian 9 Apr 92 First Edition p 1

[Decree No. 375 of the Russian Federation President "On the transfer of The Black Sea Fleet to the Russian Federation's jurisdiction," dated Moscow, the Kremlin, 7 April 1992 and signed by Russian Federation President B. Yeltsin]

[Text] For the purposes of maintaining steady control of the Black Sea Fleet and its combat readiness and ensuring social protection for servicemen and their families, appreciating its historical traditions, and in connection with the fleet's indeterminate status, I resolve that:

1. The Black Sea Fleet is to be transferred to the jurisdiction of the Russian Federation and subordinated to the Commander-in-Chief of the CIS Joint Armed Forces.

2. It is to be laid down that the activities of the Black Sea Fleet are financed out of the Russian Federation budget.

The Russian Federation Government is to provide for measures to ensure the social protection of Black Sea Fleet personnel.

3. The Russian Federation Foreign Ministry together with the Russian Federation Defense Ministry is to begin talks with Ukraine without delay with a view to determining conditions for basing ships and vessels of the Black Sea Fleet in Ukrainian ports and transferring some of them to the Ukrainian Armed Forces.

The historic Russian Andreyevskiy flag and pennants are to be flown on Black Sea Fleet ships and other vessels.

4. Black Sea Fleet ships are to perform combat service in strict accordance with the orders of the Commander in Chief of the CIS Joint Armed Forces.

[signed] Russian Federation President B. Yelts'in
The Kremlin, Moscow, 7 April 1992.

[Excerpted from the Russian-Ukrainian Agreement of 3 Aug 1992] "The Black Sea Fleet will be shared by the contracting parties [Russia & Ukraine] with the aim of creating on its basis a Russian Federation Navy and Ukraine Naval Forces. ... a transitional period until the end of 1995 until a Russian Federation Navy and Ukraine Naval Forces are formed in the Black Sea. ... the Black Sea Fleet will be removed from the control of the CIS Combined Armed Forces and placed under the direct jurisdiction of the presidents ... by consensus appoint a joint command for the Black Sea Fleet for the transitional period. ... Russia and Ukraine shall recruit by conscription to the Black Sea Fleet in equal measure -- 50 percent each. ... servicemen of Russia and Ukraine called up to serve in the Black Sea Fleet shall swear allegiance to the state of which they hold citizenship. ... the contracting parties shall jointly utilize the existing basing and logistics facilities. Done in Yalta this 3 August 1992 ..." (Moscow ITAR-TASS WORLD SERVICE in Russian 1252 GMT 6 Aug 92).]

[Excerpted from Black Sea Fleet Agreement of 17 June 1993: "Clause 1. Both sides will begin the practical formation of the Russian Navy and the Ukrainian Navy [Voyenno-morskikh Sil Ukrainy] in September 1993, on the basis of the division of the Black Sea Fleet and the determination of agreed conditions for the basing of the Russian Navy in Ukraine, and will complete this formation within the period determined by the Yalta Agreement. ...

Clause 2. The division of the Black Sea Fleet between the sides will be undertaken according to the following fundamental principles:

a) ... division between the Russian Federation and Ukraine in proportions of 50 percent to 50 percent;

b) the existing base system of the Black Sea Fleet, on the basis of the Yalta Agreement, will continue to be used by the Black Sea Fleet until division;

c) the Russian side will participate in developing the socio-economic sphere of the town of Sevastopol' ...;

d) financing of the Black Sea Fleet until its division will be carried out by the sides in equal parts (fifty percent to fifty percent); ... " 17 June 1993 (Moscow ITAR-TASS WORLD SERVICE in Russian 1605 GMT 17 Jun 93).]

["...mobile units of three to five people are grouped into tens, which, in turn, make up hundreds, and so forth. Their charter calls for strict discipline and centralism: All field commanders are to be appointed only by their superior commanders. The rank and file are obliged unquestioningly to carry out orders, and to have adequate muscles and 'national consciousness.' All vigilantes are required conscientiously to study the theory and practice of hand-to-hand fighting and small-unit tactics, and also relentlessly to improve their physical and psychological preparedness.

"The main objective of the 'Russian Vigilante Squad' is 'to protect the honor and dignity of the Russian people.' It is common knowledge from whom the Russian people should be protected: according to Sergey Komlev, chairman of the People's Union for the Protection of Russian Patriots in Government Authorities, the vigilantes' enemy No.1 is non-Russians, first of all 'the blacks, who have infested Petersburg,' that is, 'persons of Caucasian origin.' In addition, the vigilante squad is intent on helping the militia in maintaining order on the streets. 'We are going to assist the law-enforcement agencies whether they like it or not,' Igor Litvinov said. Despite their obvious desire to implant elements of a paramilitary unit in the 'Russian Vigilante Squad,' its organizers do not plan to go underground. The bulk of their members will evidently be openly employed by a security agency with a nationalistic tinge and will train at the Men's Club facilities. The vigilante squad plans to start its activity with buying beer houses 'for Russians only.'" (Moscow SEGODNYA in Russian 9 Aug 94 p 2).]

RUSSIAN-KAZAKH MILITARY COOPERATION TREATY

LD2410215494 Almaty SOVETY KAZAKHSTANA in Russian 19 Oct 94 p 2

[FBIS Translated Text] Treaty Between the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation on Military Cooperation

The Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation, hereafter referred to as the two parties, being guided by the Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance between the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation signed on 25 May 1992, taking into account previously signed accords on cooperation in the field of defense within the Commonwealth of Independent States [CIS] and on a bilateral basis in the interests of ensuring collective security, proceeding from the necessity of a strict and consistent fulfillment by the two sides of their obligations arising from the Strategic Arms Reduction Treaty of 31 July 1991 and the protocol to it signed on 23 May 1992 in Lisbon, hereafter referred to as START I and the Lisbon Protocol respectively, acknowledging the necessity of combining their efforts and coordinating their activities to ensure a reliable joint defense within the framework of a common military-strategic area, expressing the aspiration to attach a new quality to and guarantee a legal basis for military cooperation between the two parties, have agreed the following:

Article 1.

For the purposes of this treaty the following terms mean:

"Strategic nuclear forces" -- military formations that include formations, units, establishments, organizations, and installations which possess as part of their weaponry or store strategic nuclear weapons and parts to ensure their functioning.

"Unified military formations" -- units and formations of the Armed Forces of the Republic of Kazakhstan and Armed Forces of the Russian Federation which are deployed by the two parties to solve joint defense issues.

"Defense installations" -- test grounds, military installations, sites of industrial representatives and battle-fields located on land on the territories of the parties which may be used by the parties jointly or transferred by one party, including on lease terms, to another party, to be used for military purposes with the aim of consolidating the defense capability of both parties.

"Carrier" -- an intercontinental ballistic missile (ICBM), a heavy bomber, an air-launched cruise missile.

"Nuclear ammunition" -- the live part of an IBM or air-launched cruise missile that contains a nuclear charge.

Article 2.

The two parties confirm their obligations on a friendly basis for interstate relations on principles of mutual respect for state sovereignty and territorial integrity, inviolability of borders, peaceful settlement of disputes, non-use of force or threat of its use, equality of rights and non-interference in the internal affairs, good-neighborly implementation of treaty obligations in accordance with the Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation and

Mutual Assistance between the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation signed on 25 May 1992, and also observance of other universally recognized norms of international law.

In the event of a situation arising which threatens the security, independence, or territorial integrity of one of the parties, the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation will immediately hold consultations and undertake specific measures to give each other necessary assistance, including military assistance, in accordance with international law, the bilateral Treaty on Friendship, Cooperation and Mutual Assistance signed on 25 May 1992 and the Treaty on Collective Security signed on 15 May 1992.

Article 3.

Strategic nuclear forces based on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation implement tasks in the interests of the security of the two parties.

The Republic of Kazakhstan, taking into account the established system of functioning of strategic nuclear forces on its territory gives the aforementioned military formations of strategic nuclear forces the status of strategic nuclear forces of the Russian Federation -- Russian military formations based on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan on a temporary basis.

Until the complete destruction of the strategic nuclear weapons temporarily stationed on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan or their withdrawal to the territory of the Russian Federation, the decision about the necessity to use them is made by the president of the Russian Federation upon agreement with the president of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

At the same time the Russian Federation guarantees the adoption of organizational and technical measures which exclude the unauthorized use of the strategic nuclear weapons located on territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan.

The conditions for deploying strategic nuclear forces on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan, which shall correspond to the norms of international law, are to be determined by a separate agreement.

Article 4.

All movable military property and military real estate is the property of the party on whose territory it was based on 31 August 1991.

The Russian Federation acknowledges the right of the Republic of Kazakhstan to receive the equivalent (money or in other forms) of the value agreed by the parties for nuclear ammunition materials, carriers and other equipment and property of the strategic nuclear forces which was stationed on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan on 31 August 1991 upon their withdrawal to the territory of the Russian Federation.

At the same time an estimate of the cost of materials and equipment, and of the Russian Federation's expenses in maintaining, transporting and utilizing them, as well as an estimate of the share of the equivalent value in favour of the Republic of Kazakhstan is made by the parties in accordance with agreed procedure.

The property right to installations, buildings and constructions created since 31 August 1991 or to weapons, military hardware, equipment and property imported after that date belongs to the party which finances the relevant works. If the financing is shared, the property right is to be determined by separate agreements taking into account their individual input.

The parties confirm the possibility of the armed forces of one party using installations and constructions situated on the territory of the other party. The list of military installations and constructions and also the procedure and conditions for their operation are established by separate agreements.

Proceeding from the interests of improving joint defenses and strengthening national security each party, in accordance with its legislation, may transfer the property of its own armed forces into the possession or use of the other party on mutually beneficial conditions, including lease conditions.

Each of the sides is not bound to make any compensation to the other party, if there is no other accord in accordance with separate agreements, for development by the latter of military installations or land located on the territory of the former and used for military purposes, or for buildings or constructions situated on it upon the expiry of this treaty or for the early return of installations and land plots.

Article 5.

The status of defense installations which are used jointly by the two parties is determined on the basis of the powers of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation as states managing these installations and their use and supplying materials and equipment to them, and also the joint powers of the two parties in controlling the activities and use of the aforementioned installations in the interests of raising the defense potential of the two parties.

Parties carrying out the functions of management and use of and the supply of materials and equipment to strategic nuclear forces and defense installations leased from each other are fully responsible for their safe use and for maintaining the necessary level of nuclear and other security.

At the same time, each of the parties undertakes to refrain from activities that in any way could hinder the other party in carrying out its treaty obligations, including those arising from START I, the Lisbon protocol, and also the functioning of its state bodies and/or cause damage to state and/or private property.

The Russian Federation adopts measures agreed with the Republic of Kazakhstan on clearing up the after-effects of the activities of strategic nuclear forces situated on the territory of the Republic of Kazakhstan and also of defense installations transferred to the Russian Federation by the Republic of Kazakhstan. If extraordinary situations arise, the two parties adopt urgent measures to deal with them and immediately inform each other about it.

Article 6.

Recognizing the importance of strictly following the provisions of the USSR-USA Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty of 26 May 1972 and also the mutual interests of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation, the two parties proceed from the understanding that use of the Sary-Shagan test ground will be undertaken with the aim of creating and improving the anti-ballistic missile defense system, or components of it, situated in the region, as defined in Article 3 of the aforementioned treaty. At the same time, the conditions for using the Sary-Shagan test ground by the parties are determined by a separate agreement.

Article 7.

The parties will render mutual help to each other in implementing multilateral international treaties and political obligations to cut and limit strategic offensive and conventional weapons.

When concluding treaties and agreements in the sphere of military cooperation and equipment and weaponry deliveries with third countries, each of the parties undertakes to take into account the interests of the other party.

Article 8.

The Ministries of Defense of the two parties work out and conclude separate agreements on questions of joint planning and using troops in the interests of the mutual security of the two parties, and plan and conduct joint measures to train command bodies and troops on the territory of either party upon mutual agreement.

The two parties can create unified military formations under a unified command.

Article 9.

The procedure for managing and staffing defense installations used jointly by the parties, unified military formations and unified commands, and also of supplying them with materials and equipment, is determined by a separate agreement.

Article 10.

The two parties cooperate in the field of military intelligence.

Each of the two parties undertakes not to conduct military intelligence activities directed against the other party.

Article 11.

The sides shall conclude a treaty on using the forces and facilities of the naval forces of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the navy of the Russian Federation on the Caspian Sea in the interests of jointly ensuring the security of the two parties.

Article 12.

Issues of the legal status of servicemen in the armed forces of one party serving on the territory of the other party, the members of their families, their pension provision, and other issues of the social and legal protection of the aforementioned persons shall be determined by a separate agreement.

The two parties offer their citizens serving outside the borders of their state guarantees in providing and implementing social and civil rights envisaged by their legislation.

The two parties recognize the validity of ranks conferred on servicemen, state awards, certificates of education, and also guarantee pension provision, offering privileges to servicemen, persons who have left military service, and members of their families in accordance with the current legislation of the parties, taking into account their years of service in the forces of the former Soviet Union and subsequent service in the armed forces of the parties, including contract service.

The parties guarantee equal rights to civilian personnel, irrespective of their citizenship, when offering them employment in military units, enterprises, and institutions of their own armed forces and undertake to take into account this period of their work in their work record when granting a pension.

If one party disbands military units, institutions and establishments located on the territory of the other party, the former will undertake to pay compensation to civilian personnel in accordance with its labor legislation.

The parties shall consult each other on improving and bringing closer together their national legislation, including legislation on financial and social security for servicemen and civilian personnel in the armed forces and also on granting privileges to servicemen and persons who have left military service and members of their families.

Article 13.

Persons who are part of military units, institutions, and establishments shall cross the state border of the two sides on a non-visa basis, without receiving passports for foreign travel or any stamps of permission in passports, upon presentation of an identity card (military cards, internal passports) and work travel documentation (holiday permits, instructions), as shall their underage children upon being entered in the relevant documents. When appointed to a new place of service or permanent place of residence, they shall convey private property across the state border between the two parties without customs, taxes and other duties being collected.

Admission across the state border of one party of subdivisions, units, and detachments of over more than fifty persons from the armed forces of the other party shall be effected in conformity with timely notification and agreement between the defence ministries of the two parties.

Article 14.

Material and technical provision of the military formations shall be carried out by the defense ministries of the two parties on mutually beneficial conditions, guaranteeing high level support for the combat readiness and combat capability of their armed forces and unified military formations and shall be regulated by individual agreements.

Article 15.

The activities of military formations of one party stationed on the territory of the other party shall be financed by the party under whose jurisdiction they are.

Issues of the circulation of the currencies of the parties with the aim of providing for the vital activities of servicemen and military formations of the parties stationed on their territories shall be regulated in conformity with the agreement between the National Bank of the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Central Bank of the Russian Federation.

Article 16.

Each party in its activities on the sites and land of the other party undertakes not to violate either the state and public security of the other party or the individual security of the citizens of the latter.

Article 17.

The two parties pursue a coordinated policy in the areas of joint design, production, repair and supply of arms, military equipment and material and technical resources in the interests of comprehensive provision for the armed forces, defense installations and unified military formations, and coordinate issues of military and technical cooperation, at the same time ensuring the preservation and development of established cooperation links between enterprises designing and manufacturing arms and military equipment. Supplies and services shall be effected on a duty-free basis at prices set by each party for its own needs. Prices and tariffs are agreed by the parties and determined in every case by a separate agreement. Issues of coordinating policy in the sphere of armaments and military equipment, as well as mutual supply of production (work and services) shall be determined by special agreements on the basis of the joint arms programs.

The parties shall cooperate in the spheres of the defense industry, research, and experimental and design work, retaining and developing established specialization and cooperation.

In order to implement a coordinated policy in the military and technical sphere the parties shall establish an inter-state commission for military and technical cooperation between the Republic of Kazakhstan and the Russian Federation.

Article 18.

The parties retain the existing procedure for training and preparing officers and junior military specialists for the armed forces of both parties in line with relevant agreements.

Article 19.

The parties retain the existing system for of all kinds of communications, for anti-aircraft and anti-ballistic missile defense, for notification and communications and take agreed measures on their development.

The parties cooperate in the field of military transportation. The procedure for such cooperation shall be defined by a separate agreement.

The parties retain a single air space for the flights of military and civil aircraft and the joint air-traffic control system for these flights on the basis of the relevant agreements.

Article 20.

With the aim of strengthening discipline and law and order in the armed forces, at defense installations used by the parties jointly or on lease terms and at unified military formations the parties coordinate their actions in the law enforcement field.

Article 21.

The parties plan joint measures and render mutual assistance in resolving ecological problems connected with the consequences of military activities.

Article 22.

The present agreement is not aimed against any other states and does not affect the rights and obligations of the parties resulting from other international agreements of which they are participants.

Article 23.

The parties will not allow their territory to be used by third states with the aim of carrying out activities aimed against the other party.

Article 24.

With the aim of implementing the provisions of this treaty, and also in the interests of broadening and further deepening cooperation in the field of defense, the parties are creating a joint committee which will function according to the regulations approved by the parties.

Article 25.

Amendments and addenda to this treaty can be introduced by the mutual agreement of the Parties.

The treaty will be ratified and come into force from the date of exchanging the ratification credentials.

The treaty will run for ten years. Its effect will then be automatically prolonged for a further ten years if neither of the parties, less than six months before the expiry date of the treaty, notifies the other party in writing about its wish to end the treaty.

The present treaty is temporarily put into effect from the day it is signed.

Signed in Moscow on 28 March 1994 in two copies, each in Kazakh and Russian, moreover both texts have the same force.

This is a U.S. Government publication produced by the Foreign Broadcast Information Service (FBIS). Its contents in no way represent the policies, views, or attitudes of the U.S. Government.

FBIS collects, translates, disseminates, and analyzes foreign open-source information on behalf of the U.S. Government. Its publications may contain copyrighted material. Copying and dissemination is prohibited without permission of the copyright owners.

- Bracketed indicators before the first sentence of each item describe the way in which the material was processed by FBIS.
- Headlines and all bracketed explanatory notes are supplied by FBIS.
- Personal and place names are rendered in accordance with the decisions of the U.S. Board on Geographic Names as adapted by FBIS. Unverified names in radio and television material appear in parentheses and are spelled phonetically; words and phrases in parentheses preceded by a question mark are unclear in the original and deduced from context.
